

Nanoscale Science and Engineering Center
 James Yardley, Columbia University
 NSF Award CHE-0117752

- ❖ Program for 500 New York area 10th and 11th graders and their teachers.
- ❖ Proclamation by the Mayor of New York designating April 17, 2004 as Nano-Day in New York.
- ❖ Video address by Senator Hillary Clinton.
- ❖ Presentations on Nanoscale science.
- ❖ Posters and exhibits.

E 1 0 0 | h # W k h # / F I n g I n # J x |

SHAKE HANDS WITH SCIENCE!

NANO-DAY in NEW YORK

AN ALL-DAY, CITY-WIDE, SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING EXTRAVAGANZA DESIGNED TO INCREASE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS' AWARENESS OF NANOSCIENCE AND NANO-TECHNOLOGY AND THE IMPORTANT ROLE THESE DISCIPLINES WILL PLAY IN THE FUTURE OF OUR GLOBAL SOCIETY.

A PRESENTATION OF THE COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY NANO-CENTER AND THE CITY COLLEGE OF NEW YORK

Saturday, April 17, 2004
 8:30AM-1:00PM — Aaron Davis Hall
 1:00PM-3:30PM — The Great Hall
 The City College of New York • 135th St. & Convent Ave.

In collaboration with Columbia University, The City College of New York, Barnard College, and Rowan University.

FOR MORE INFORMATION ABOUT NANO DAY IN NEW YORK, PLEASE CALL (212) 650-9040 AT THE CITY COLLEGE OF NEW YORK
 COORDINATORS: R. Brown, CCNY and A. Levy, CU

in association with NYSTAR

HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDE

- Featured Speakers
 - Senator Hillary Clinton (Invited)
 - Bill Nye the Science Guy
 - Professor Daniel L. Akins
 - Professor Wendy Crone
 - Professor Horst Stormer
 - Nobel Laureate, Physics
- Exhibits and demonstrations on cutting-edge research being conducted at CU, CCNY, Barnard College, and Rowan University
- Tours of engineering and science laboratories
- A "Nano Raffle" (Top Prize: Laptop computer)